History:

This plot of land is about 500 feet long from east to west and about 100 feet wide. It is fenced but has grown up in a bramble of trees, brush, and vines and is almost impenetrable. The cemetery is at the western end of this tract. The stones are almost lost and illegible and only a few remain. It is thought that other members of the Erhardt family are buried here. Mr. Derendinger said that this tract of land was "reserved" because of the burial plot and by verbal agreement was never transferred on the books. Recorded by Helen and Roy Mitzel and Mary Ann Kempf and assisted by Milton Sieckman and Mrs. Derendinger on 05 Jun 1985.
