

THE BOONVILLE ADVERTISER PRESENTS REVIEW OF 1923

Events of Past Twelve Months Gleaned
From 52 Issues of The Advertiser

General News, Weddings, Births and Deaths—Year Just Passed Saw Much progress in Boonville and Cooper
County

Believing that our readers would enjoy a review of the past year's events, as told in their county paper, we herewith present a resume of the 52 issues of The Boonville Advertiser.

Looking back over the year just passed into history, we find many things worthy of comment and of interest to our readers. Our county was favored with seasonable weather through all the year, no epidemic of disease threatened our people, progress in many lines was noticeable and a determination on the part of the majority to beat back to normal conditions was not without results.

Agriculturally speaking, 1923 was a year of bountiful crops which sold at prices too low for the farmer to realize a fair return for his toil and investment. But it is cheering to note that the outlook for the future of American agriculture is rather reassuring. Hard times on the farm have forced a rigid application of the best of farm methods which will not be without gratifying results.

Boonville as the county seat of a great county has made unusual progress. Steel work on the great free bridge across the Missouri River here promises to be completed in the spring or early summer; many new houses have been erected during the past year, street improvements have gone forward, the removal of the offices for the division superintendent of the M. K. & T. Railroad to Boonville with the employment of a big force of men here and at New Franklin, has added to the town's importance as a railroad center, six miles of hardsurfaced road leading into the town was completed, and on very hand are many signs of continued improvement.
