DIED AT SEVENTY-FIVE.

Aged Resident of Pettis County Passes

Away

J. M. Glasscock, one of the pioneers of Central Missouri, and for a long time a resident of Pettis county, died at his home near Dresden Wednesday, aged 75 years.

Judge Glasscock, as he was known, was a justice of the peace for Dresden township. He was honorable, upright, widely known and universally regarded as a good citizen.

His wife died only a few months ago, and since that time his mind has not been good.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been announced, but will be published tomorrow.
