R. N. McMAHAN DEAD.

Robert N. McMahan, one of Cooper county's old citizens and prominent farmers, died from a stroke of paralysis received on August 29th, at his home near Lamine, on Thursday, September 12th.

He was a native of Madison county, Kentucky, where he was born in 1841. He came to Missouri when only a small boy with his parents and settled in the community near where he died.

The funeral services was held at the family residence on Friday and the remains were consigned to the tomb at the Old Lamine church. He left a wife, but no children, except an adopted daughter, the wife of Kelly Kuecklehan.
