Red Cross is planning a training session for all people interested in helping during a major disaster. Cooper County is in need of individuals and families who are willing to learn specific methods of helping those afflicted by a major disaster, said Dianna Jensen, chairman of the local ARC. The Cooper County chapter is planning a free special training session with state experts to be held from 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 22 at Knights of Columbus Hall. All that is needed is your time and your caring.
