Rev. W. N. Phillips, aged 67 years, died Saturday morning at 12:05 o'clock at his home, Fifteenth Street and Summit Avenue, death resulting from cancer of the jaw.

He is survived by a widow, four sisters and two brothers, all of the sisters and brothers residing elsewhere. No children survive.

Rev. Phillips, realizing that his death was only a short time away, on January 2, 1913, wrote the following data as an obituary notice for himself to be used after his passing.

"I was born in Tennessee in the year 1846, Jan. 11, in Henderson County. My parents moved to Missouri in 1853, and I stayed with them until I was 18 years old. Then I joined the federal army and served two years. From St. Clair County I came to Pettis County and married Mary Potter April 28, 1867."

Peninsula, Lamine, Camp Branch, Green Ridge, South Fork and Mount Zion. I witnessed 1,000 conversions, baptized 600 persons, and having fought the fight I am ready to be offered Farewell, comrades; meet me there. My address is Heaven - W. N. Phillips."

OPAL FRANCES HURT

Fourteen-Year-Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Hurt, of Near Pisgah, Victim of Typhoid Fever

After having been dangerously ill for the past several weeks, suffering from typhoid fever, Opal Frances, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Hurt, of near Pisgah, passed away about seven o'clock Monday evening (05 Oct 1914).

Funeral services were conducted at the Pisgah Baptist church about noon Wednesday by the pastor, Rev. D. H. Howerton, and were very largely attended. Six boys acted as pallbearers and the casket was followed into the church building by the members of the Sunday school class, of which Opal had been a member. The floral offerings were unusually beautiful and profuse and indicated, to a certain extent, the high esteem and devotion in which the departed one was held.

At the time of her death, Opal was fourteen years, seven months, and twenty-eight days old. She was an unusually bright and sweet child, and greatly endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. She was a student in the Pisgah consolidated high school and was passionately fond of study, and was making an excellent record in her studies and, doubtless her close application to her studies was, to a certain degree, responsible for the attack of fever which caused her death. Opal gave her young life to Christ more than a year before her death, being a consistent member of the Pisgah Baptist church. Truly, "Death loves a shining mark", was exemplified in the death of this fair young girl, who so early gave promise of blooming into beautiful young womanhood.

Besides her parents, Opal is survived by two little brothers, and to the grief-stricken family and other relatives and friends, the Eagle extends sincere sympathy.

SUDDEN DEATH OF T. EMANUEL STEPHENS

Stricken With Apoplexy Sunday Morning – Died 14 Hours Later

HAD LIVED IN KANSAS CITY 7 YEARS

Body Brought to Old Home for Interment – Leaves Wife and Four Children

Back to the scenes of his childhood and to the many friends of yore, there was brought to Bunceton Tuesday afternoon the remains of Thomas Emanuel Stephens, to be laid to rest in the city cemetery and within near sight of the homestead where he was born and reared.

Mr. Stephens, who moved from Bunceton to Kansas City seven years ago, was stricken with apoplexy Sunday morning at 1:15, at his home, 110 North Lawn, in that city. He rallied and regained consciousness, but two hours later suffered another attack and at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon was stricken for the third time and died thirty minutes later.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. Scrivner, pastor, of the Budd Park Christian church, of Kansas City, were held at the family home Monday afternoon at 2:30. The body, accompanied by all the members of the family, was brought to Bunceton Tuesday afternoon, and interment was in the family lot at the Bunceton cemetery, services at the grave conducted by Rev. J. W. Mitchell, pastor of the Bunceton Presbyterian church.

Mr. Stephens, who was a son of the late W. H. Stephens and wife, was born on the old Stephens homestead, one mile northwest of Bunceton, on September 11, 1855, being 59 years, 1 month and 27 days old at the time of his death. On April 5, 1882, he was united in marriage with Miss Rebecca Dickson, of California, Mo. To this union were born four children, all of whom, with the wife and mother survive him. They are Mrs. Lee C. Wardell, of Lindsborg, Kans.; Mrs. W. Speed Mills, Hayden C. and W. M. Stephens, of Kansas City. He also leaves two brothers, W. L. Stephens, of Versailles, and R. A. Stephens, of Warsaw.

Mr. Stephens grew to manhood here and spent practically all his life in this community until moving to Kansas City seven years ago. At the time of his death, he was a city salesman for a cigar company. When a young man he learned the blacksmith trade and for a while conducted a shop just east of where the livery stable now stands. He later engaged in the restaurant business for a short time, after which he bought a drug store here and was engaged in the drug business for 17 or 18 years.

He was converted when a young man and at the time of his death was a member of the Bunceton Christian church, where his membership had been for many years.

He was a big-hearted, generous and genial man – one who had many friends to whom the news of his sudden death brought real sorrow. Kindhearted and sympathetic, he was held in high esteem by those who knew him best. A good husband and a loving and indulgent father, his sudden passing is a crushing blow to his devoted wife and children, and to them we extend sincere sympathy.

Death of Benijah Hurt

Benijah Hurt was born in Cooper County, Missouri, May 15, 1848. He departed this life at his farm home eight miles southwest of Boonville, December 15, 1914.

Benijah Hurt and Miss Mary E. Edwards, daughter of Cornelius and Mary A. Edwards, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents November 18, 1873. To this union two daughters were born. They are living and are: Mrs. Leslie Rudolph, Boonville, Mo.' and Mrs. W. A. Salmon, widow, at the home of the departed one. Mrs. Benijah Hurt died September 29, 1880.

Other near relatives of deceased are: brothers, James Hurt and W. A. Hurt, one sister, Mrs. Mollie McFarland, all of Cooper County and residing on farms near Boonville.

Benijah Hurt was a member of Mount Herman Baptist Church, having united with the church in 1876. The funeral services were held at Mt. Herman at two o'clock afternoon of Tuesday, December 17, 1914. Services were conducted by Rev. J. B. Weldon, pastor of the Christian Church of Boonville. Interment at church cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Joe Gillman, R. S. Rankin, D. Robinson, Leonard Schmidt, Albert Adair, and B. D. Jewett.

Although Mr. Hurt was growing old in years, he was a man of strong endurance and a hard worker on his farm. About two weeks ago, Mr. Hurt had two teams at work on his farm hauling fodder from the field to the shed. He, in company with a neighbor, John Bornhauser, were on the rear wagon and, in crossing a branch, the whipple tree of the off horse became loosened and dropped, causing the horses to frighten. The two horses started to run and, with all due effort to control them on the part of the driver, they collided with the wagon in front. In the collision, Mr. Hurt was thrown underneath the horses and was trampled and kicked in the side. Four ribs were broken, two of them in two places. Mr. Bornhauser was thrown out into the field and sustained only slight bruises.

The Hurt family have been identified with Cooper County from the pioneer days of Missouri, and through three generations have borne a name worthy and unsullied. Col. Clayton Hurt, father of William, who was the father of the departed one and who came to Missouri, settling in Cooper County in 1815, now known as Boonville township, was an enterprising citizen. He became a prominent and wealthy farmer and reared a large family of children, eleven in all.

Benijah Hurt was a man of true worth, admired by all who knew him and, in his death, the county loses a most worthy citizen.

To the bereaved ones, the Republican offers sympathy.

William M. Johnson

WILLIAM M. JOHNSON CALLED TO HIS REWARD

The Angel of Death Beckoned and He Obeyed the Summons

HE WALKED WITH GOD

Was a Man of Distinguished Personality and Character.

There are in every community certain personalities which stand out clearly from the common mass of mankind because of the possession of some marked traits of character. For more than half a century the community has been familiar with such an one in the person of William M. Johnson, who needs no eulogy, for his life is its own best eulogy. For the inspiration of others it is well to note some of the outstanding traits in the character of this man, who was so universally esteemed and respected.

William M. Johnson was born July 12, 1827, at Harrisburg, Va., and died at his home on Sixth street in this city, Saturday evening, June 29, 1918. His father was Isaac Johnson and his mother's maiden name was Mary Cootes, who was related to some of the early settlers of Virginia. He came to Boonville in the year 1855, and held a position with the George T. Hardcastle mercantile company for several years and later entered the employ of Wm. H. Trigg, who at that time was operating a bank in Boonville. During his employment there the bank was compelled to take over a large assignment of dry goods from St. Louis, in payment of a debt. This led to the organization of the Wm. H. Trigg Dry Goods Company of Boonville, with which Mr. Johnson was identified until the firm retired from business in 1892. Later Mr. Johnson retired, after a continuous service of over 50 years in business in Boonville. Mr. Johnson was married to Miss Julia A. Trigg in 1859, to which union four children were born, three of whom are still living, they being, W. Morris and Wilburt T., Of Boonville, and Mrs. J. Lawson Price, of Jefferson City; one daughter died in infancy.

His funeral was held from the residence on Sixth street, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, and the services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. M. Green, of the Presbyterian church, of which he was a long and faithful member, and the services were beautiful and impressive. A large concourse of citizens were present and the acting pall bearers were Col. T. A. Johnston, H. G. Windsor, Starke Koontz, E. H. Rodgers, H. W. Jenkins, Lawrence Geiger.

The hour of the funeral seemed to be a fitting one, and as the orb of day was slowly sinking beyond the western horizon the earthly remains of Wm. M. Johnson were laid to rest in beautiful Walnut Grove cemetery, to sleep the sleep of the just, until the trumpet of the archangel shall sound his awakening.

Mr. Johnson was preeminently a man of faith. Trust in God and belief in his fellow man were the predominating features of his life, and this fact gave tone to the whole life and actions, making his influence both worthy and effective. It produced in him that broad charity to all and sweetened the life by the presence of a tender sympathy and kindly interest in the welfare of others. His was the life possessed of the rare virtue of humility. There was no desire for idle show, nor place for insincere acts found in him. Never seeking any special prominence, but ever wielding an influence, his personality was felt like the fragrance of the loveliest violet hidden amid the more conspicuous forms of life unseen but filling all the air with its sweet perfume. No grace of life is more to be desired and none to be more commended than a true humility for it is an element of character which wins the approval of God and the admiration of the world.

His was a life of sterling integrity and honor. Never a suspicion of injustice or dishonor rested upon him, and like Enoch he verily "walked with God." Fairer than any touch of painter, stronger than any stroke of sculptor, is that power and grace with which sincerity and honor brightened and strengthened his whole life because of the inner beauty of the soul. In his presence men were true and strong as they came under the silent power of his true and pure character.

The reward of such a life is in the esteem and confidence of men, and that abiding influence which is eternal. Its peace and triumph is little short of translation for it grows constantly into the heavenly life. In the passing of such a character it may be truly said that "earth is poorer and heaven richer."

Those who were associated with him in the church knew his worth and will miss him greatly, his place will be hard to fill. As an officer in the church for fifty-nine years he was fully imbued with the work which the Master gave him to do, always cheerfully and courageously bearing all burdens and contributing liberally of his means to its support. As a citizen he was thoroughly interested in every enterprise for the upbuilding of the community and the blessing of society. His memory should be an inspiration to every one who knew and respected him. Would that there were more like him, the age needs such characters and few men measure up to him in the stature of a full-grown Christian manhood. The benediction of such a life is a richer heritage than all the wealth of the material world, for "No life can be pure in its purpose and strong in its strife, and all life not be purer and stronger thereby." His task is done. His course is run; But on the lasting page, Of many a mortal life, There lies a mark that age And length of time cannot efface.

In Memoriam - In loving memory of Charlie Force who passed away one year ago today, November 28 1919: In a graveyard quietly sleeping, Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one we love so dearly, In his lonely silent grave. The flowers we laid upon you, May wither and decay, But the love we have for you, Will never fade away. Sadly missed by your wife, Augusta Force and your father Frank Force.
