History:

Recorded by Mrs. Herbert J. Meyer, on or about 21 Feb 1867.

"This stone has a history; so we will record what is known about it."

"The Ransom family was moving west by wagon to Colorado in the summer of 1854 and stopped over night at this spot. While here, Sarah A. Ransom, the wife and mother became sick and died. She was buried here, in the open. The family, having no other way, at the time, to mark the grave, placed a large rock on it, as a marker. About a year later, members of the family came back to Missouri and placed a head stone of the grave."
